Foreword

Poems which break it all down into atoms. They deal with fundamental topics. They ask questions and look for answers. They hold up a mirror to us as well as motivating us to make improvements.

Motto:
not just the right answers.”

TOMÁŠ ĎUROŠKA

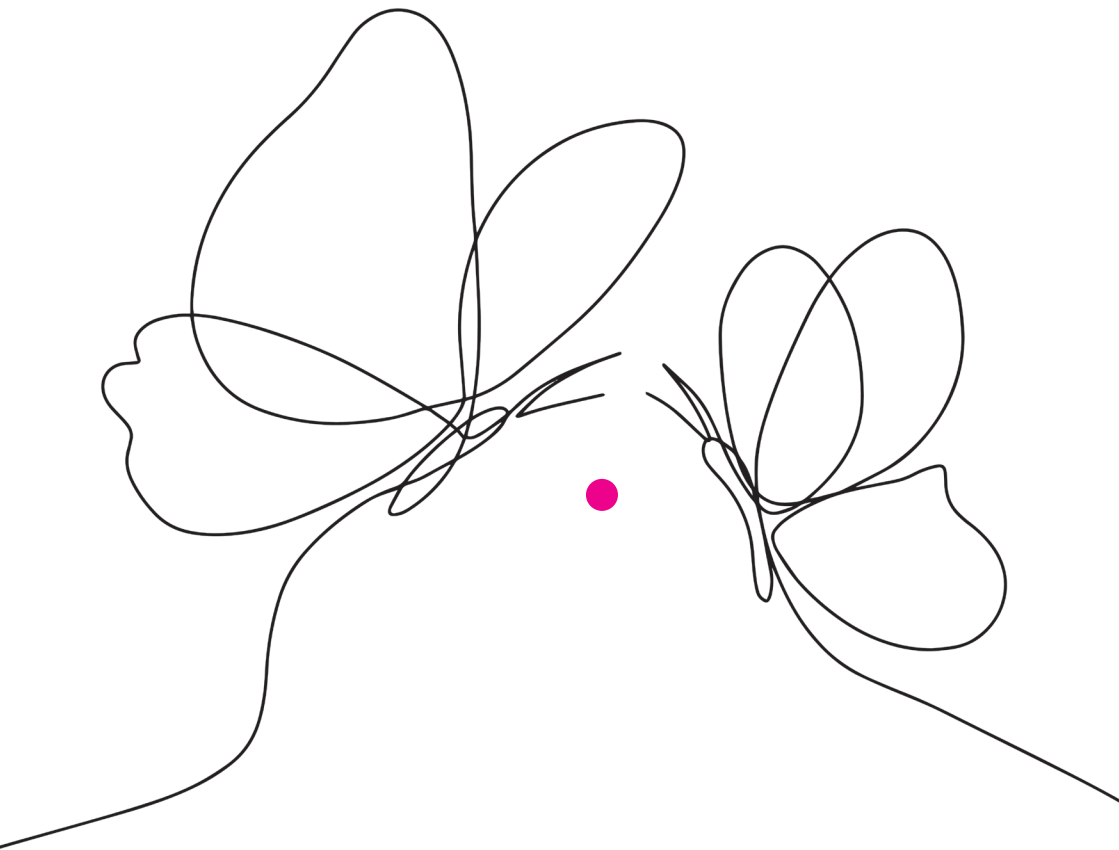

Big ideas:
“Imagination is more important than knowledge.”

ALBERT EINSTEIN

ENCOUNTERS

We encounter stupidity,
hope and humility,
comfort and hate.

We encounter seas, fields, meadows,
water, animals and birds,
and beautiful wild poppies.
Encounters make us happy and fearful.
They scold us, they touch us or fail to interest us, sometimes.
But always, they are encounters.
Long live encounters!
